IN MEMORIAM.

It has pleased Almighty God to visit our town again and take one of our best citizens, who fought the battles of life for many years, William Cook, who departed this life June 7, 1900. He was ill for five or more months, but had been bothered with stomach and liver troubles for a long while; still he would strive and do what he could for his family, who was always looked after by him in the best way possible until he was compelled to take his bed. At first his family and friends thought he would recover, but gradually this hope was dispelled and he lingered and grew weaker and weaker. He was cheerful when his severe miseries would die off, and would often express his willingness to die and said this sky was clear.

He was a bright member of the United Baptist church and was always found trying to do something to promote the cause of Christ. His funeral was preached by Rev. G. W. Bolling, his pastor, and the many lovely flowers witnessed by the eyes of the immense crowd, which was present to pay the last token of respect to our beloved brother, tell to his bereaved family that he was much loved by both white and colored and his death was much re
